

1. Phillips, M. (2018, Jan 02). Society trivializes rape victims. University Wire Retrieved from <http://libproxy.lib.unc.edu/login?url=https://search.proquest.com/docview/1983199075?accountid=14244>
 - a. This article discusses the prevalence of post-traumatic stress disorder in rape victims because of the lack of control they feel as a result of the assault.
2. Schultz, L. G. (1975). Rape victimology. Springfield, Ill.: Thomas
 - a. This book discusses how rape victims are perceived by society and by their peers. It is often required for a rape victim to show evidence of active struggle in order to gain sympathy from the news and from jurors, even though the definition of rape is much more broad. I plan to use this book to demonstrate the difficulties faced by rape victims in society.
3. This is how society treats rape victims!. (2016, Mar 30). University Wire Retrieved from
<http://libproxy.lib.unc.edu/login?url=https://search.proquest.com/docview/1776717281?accountid=14244>
 - a. This article describes the devastating effects rape can have on women, not only because of the actual crime, but also because societal pressures convince women that being raped is shameful.
4. Hengehold, L. (2014). Relating Rape and Murder: Narratives of Sex, Death and Gender. Contemporary Sociology, 43(1), 105–107. <https://doi.org/10.1177/0094306113514539z>
 - a. Relating Rape and Murder discusses how women tend to be more afraid than men of all violent crimes, even though they are only more at risk for rape. Women see all rapists as potential murderers, which is a real threat. This article discusses how rape and murder are linked both in fiction and in actual events. I plan to use this article to discuss the violent underpinnings of rape, and how rape is not inherently about sex but about violence and power.

5. van der Bruggen, M., & Grubb, A. (2014). A review of the literature relating to rape victim blaming: An analysis of the impact of observer and victim characteristics on attribution of blame in rape cases. Aggression and Violent Behavior, 19(5), 523–531.
<https://doi.org/10.1016/j.avb.2014.07.008>
 - a. The dichotomy of gender relations and how they result in rape is an interesting part of this article.